

Iberia to Offer New Premium Economy Class

Iberia unveiled its new, extra-comfortable Premium Economy cabin, to be available on 37 of its long-haul aircraft, starting during the summer season of 2017.

Seats in the new cabin will be 19" wide, and distance between rows will be extended to 37". Seats will recline by an additional 40% over those on the economy cabin.

Customers flying in Premium Economy class will also enjoy the adjustable head and foot rests, noise-cancelling earphones, and an exclusive amenities kit.

They will have full access to the entertainment programme via 13-inch display screens, instead of the 9-inch screens in Economy class.

In addition, Premium Economy passengers will have priority in boarding and leaving the aircraft, an extra suitcase allowance, upgraded dining options, and other privileges.

The first aircraft to be equipped with the new section will be used next summer on routes between Madrid and Buenos Aires, Bogota, Lima, and Chicago.
